

The Section Sez . . .

BEING SECRETIVE OR BEING RESPONSIBLE?

When the CIFSDS doesn't blab about its decisions on blogs or in the newspaper, it is not because they are hiding something; it is because they are being respectful of the students, parents and school personnel's privacy rights.

It is admittedly one-sided, the parent, student and coach can go to anyone who will listen and tell their spin – but the CIFSDS can't and shouldn't. After all, would you want your kid's eligibility issues and all the shenanigans published in the newspaper?

Instead of being criticized for keeping confidences and accused of vindictiveness and retaliatory conduct they should be thanked for their professionalism. In reality, those loudest anonymous critics are probably the vindictive ones seeking retaliation because they did not tell the whole story. If only the CIFSDS could tell your story.
